

Your VOICE is important for this research study

Hello!

We are back again ... and we are getting ready for the next interview

An update on the Pathways of Care Longitudinal Study for young people

We will be contacting you again soon to ask if you would like to join in the next interview. The interview will be very similar to the last one. We just want to see how things have been going for you since we last saw you. Remember, it would be great if you could join in but it is up to you! If you are new to this study, welcome! This video www.facs.nsw.gov.au/resources/research/pathways-of-care/videos explains what the study is about.

Research creates new knowledge

You are helping to make this important study a success. By answering the study questions you are helping us to learn more about how to raise healthy and happy children and young people. Over 1,280 children and young people are being interviewed in this study. It is one of the biggest studies being done today about children and young people in Australia.

Thank you

A big thank you for joining in the research study. If you would like to learn more about the study please visit the study webpage www.facs.nsw.gov.au/resources/research/pathways-of-care or phone the DCJ researchers on 1800 997 960 or the I-view interviewers on 1800 105 088. Thank you for joining in!

NSW Department of Communities and Justice | Ipsos/I-view Social Research | Sax Institute
University of Sydney | University of NSW | Kurungkurl Katitjin, Edith Cowan University
University of Wollongong | University of South Australia | University of Canterbury, New Zealand
Chapin Hall Centre for Children University of Chicago